

DGST 395: Applied Digital Studies

A showcase of student projects and digital poster session.

Dec 3rd, 2015

9:30 - 12:00 HCC Digital Auditorium

Indie Or Major

By Mike Black

This video serves as an introduction for any aspiring musician looking to get their foot in the door in the music industry. My special guest, Tef Wesley, breaks down the role of record labels and the importance of artist development.

PRIVACURITY

By Andrew Boswell | dgst395.boscoe.net

The Privacurity project focuses on improving one's privacy and security on the devices they use to connect online. Stop by my website for tutorials and info on how to prevent companies from invading your privacy.

My Cross To Bear

By Emily Bostaph | dgst395.emilybostaph.org

A documentary series exploring the interactions between Christians and Queers. A series aiming to change the way that LGBTQ individuals are perceived and treated in religious communities.

The Bindi Blade

By Patrick Boyle

In Chapter I Prema is living in her normal life with her family. It starts out with a kingdom being attacked because they will not swear allegiance to Blairmore.

Insight into UMW

By Steven Fernando

This short video segment takes the viewpoints of a sample of the Mary Washington population. While the people I could find to participate were limited, they answered a series of interview questions which helped them reflect on their experiences here at UMW.

Cooking Up Stories

By Meredith Fierro | dgst395.meredithfierro.com

Cooking Up Stories is a website designed for users to create and share their own recipes. The recipes could be an old family favorite, a great weeknight dinner recipe, or even a new recipe.

Antisocial AI

By Matthew Gaughan

What if there was an AI that hacked into different social media accounts and wrote hateful messages to other people? How would it hack accounts, when would it get caught, and what would people do about it? Come check it out!

To a Tea (an entrepreneur story)

By Dominique Giles | tiredmimi.com/games/to-a-tea/

Description: To a Tea is a visual novel proving anyone can start a business, even a sloth! Follow along as Sara and friends take their first steps towards starting their catering business "To a Tea".

A Weekend In The Woodshop

By Jeff Lundberg

With hands on skills diminishing year after year, I offer the viewer an informative look into the world of woodworking with step by step instructions designed to motivate the viewer to learn and take up the craft.

Obsolete

By Emily Pilat | philome.la/AttileeRECORD/obsolete/play

Comprising of ten separate works total, Obsolete is an electronic literature collection of hypertext poems and flash essays which all touch on the subject of A.I. technology and its overlap with humanity.

Noir vs. Neo-Noir: How media changes over time?

By Kassia Rivera | noir395.tumblr.com

My project is a series of essays that attempt to explain the differences between noir and neo-noir and why these differences occur. I also created short sound stories for each genre to better explain how these differences appear in an audio medium.

Faith or Fact

By Catalina Ruiz de Gamboa

This project followed a young woman searching for the urban legend Mothman in Point Pleasant, West Virginia. Another woman tracks her trip online, candidly sharing her doubts via Twitter and Tumblr. This transmedia project explore faith, urban legends, and the doubts that riddle the World Wide Web.

The Fishbowl

By Jenni Sherba | @natgkirk & jenniration-y.tumblr.com

The Fishbowl is a transmedia universe in which social media is explored as a form of social surveillance. The narrative unfolds via a fictional novelist's work-in-progress, and her interactions with her editor, publisher, and audience on social media.

#BeyondTheSelfie

By Andrea Stegman | instagram.com/livialou_youknowwho/

Most of us are guilty of taking a selfie or the yummy breakfast we had; But at what point does this habit become toxic? @livialou_youknow uses her Instagram to promote authentic posting.

"What Do You See?"

By Ryland Willis | soundcloud.com/ylandillis/sets/what-do-you-see

"What Do You See?" explores the lives of homeless people from their perspective. The stories of a single mother, street performer, addict, and job hunter are all brought to life through this concept album.